Name: _____ Date: _____

JEAN AUGUSTINE

Read the biographical passage about Jean Augustine and answer the questions.

Jean Augustine is a notable figure in Canadian history, renowned for her trailblazing achievements in politics and education. Born on September 9, 1937, in Grenada, she moved to Canada as a young woman. Augustine's journey in Canada began with her dedication to education; she first served as a teacher and then as a school principal, demonstrating her commitment to academic excellence and student development.

Her aspirations and skills led her to a career in politics. In 1993, Augustine achieved a historic milestone by becoming the first black woman elected to the Canadian Parliament. This accomplishment was significant not only because of the representation it provided but also because it broke racial and gender barriers in Canadian politics, paving the way for future generations of diverse leaders.

During her time in Parliament, Augustine was a vocal advocate for social justice and equality. One of her notable contributions was the establishment of Black History Month in Canada in February. This initiative was crucial in promoting the recognition and celebration of the contributions of Black Canadians to the nation's history and culture.

Jean Augustine's career is marked by numerous awards and recognitions, reflecting her impact in various spheres, including education, politics, and social justice. After retiring from active politics, she continued to engage in public service, focusing on educational initiatives and advocating for equity and inclusion.

Use the image

Name: _____ Date: _____

1 What is the background and early career of Jean Augustine?

2 How did Jean Augustine contribute to the recognition of Black history in Canada?

3 What continues to be Jean Augustine's focus after retiring from Parliament?

Use the Village