Hello brilliant students!
I'm your new Holiday Elf, and I am so excited to spend December in your classroom! Your teacher and I had a wonderful chat, and I introduced myself properly.
I wanted your teacher to share my name with you all!

You'll find me in a new spot each morning. I love being silly, and I am here to report back good deeds I see throughout each day to the North Pole!

A quick magical reminder: Please don't touch me! But, I can't wait to see all your kindness, teamwork, and holiday cheer.

Let the December fun begin!

Hello brilliant students!

It's me again, your Holiday Elf! I've seen so many acts of kindness, teamwork, and holiday cheer... it makes my little elf heart sparkle!

But, I must admit...

Over the last day or two, I've noticed a few behaviors that don't quite match the Christmas spirit I know you're capable of. Nothing too serious, just small moments where kindness and respectfulness got a little wobbly.

Good news?

You are ALL amazing, and I know you can turn it right around!

Remember, I'm here to spot:

- ✨ Helpful hands
- ✨ Kind voices
- ✨ Respectful choices
- ✨ Friends lifting each other up

Every time I see one of those things, I zip the news straight back to the North Pole. And trust me, good deeds make my report extra sparkly.

Let's all try our very best today.

I believe in every single one of you!

Hello brilliant students!

It's your Holiday Elf popping in with a happy update! Over the last few days, I've seen so much kindness, teamwork, and cheerful choices in this classroom. You've been helping friends, using gentle words, and spreading the Christmas spirit everywhere you go.

I'm so proud of you! Your good deeds make my reports to the North Pole extra sparkly!

Keep shining, keep caring, and keep being the amazing class you are.

Hello brilliant students!

It's me, still in the exact same spot as yesterday! Don't worry... nothing magical is wrong. I was just exhausted from all the mental load of being a holiday elf! This is a very busy season for me!

Even elves need a little extra rest sometimes, especially when they've been doing a lot of jingling and giggling.

I'm feeling much better now, and I can't wait to see the wonderful things you'll do today. Keep being your amazing, cheerful selves. It fills my elf heart with joy!

Hello brilliant students!

You may have noticed... I didn't move last night! But don't worry, nothing dramatic happened. Your teacher accidentally brushed against me, and when I get touched, my magic gets a little sleepy and needs time to recharge.

It wasn't anyone's fault at all! Even adults forget how wiggly elves can be. I just needed one calm night in the same spot to get my sparkles back.

The good news? I can already feel my magic returning, thanks to all the kindness and cheer in this classroom! Your good deeds help me regain my full jingle power faster than anything else.

Hello brilliant students!

It's your Holiday Elf here with an important message! Your teacher won't be here today, so a wonderful substitute teacher will be taking care of the class. While I'm perched up here on my cozy spot, I'll be watching for all the kindness, teamwork, and respectful choices you're known for.

Remember:

- ✨ Listen the first time
- ✨ Help each other
- ✨ Use kind voices
- ✨ Show the substitute how amazing this class can be

When you treat your substitute with the same kindness you show your teacher, my elf heart grows three sizes (which is medically questionable, but very magical).
I can't wait to report all your great choices to the North Pole tonight!

Hello brilliant students!
It's hard to believe my time in your classroom is already coming to an end. Winter Break is almost here, and I've been called back to the North Pole to help with the final holiday preparations. There are cocoa mugs to fill, gift lists to double-check, and a lot of last-minute jingling to do!

I want you to know how much I've loved being here. I've watched you learn, laugh, help each other, and show kindness in a hundred tiny ways. You've filled this room, and my little elf heart, with so much holiday cheer.

Even when I'm far away, I'll remember all the wonderful things I saw in this classroom. Keep being kind, keep being helpful, and keep shining bright through your whole winter break.
I'll miss you... stay magical, stay joyful, and enjoy your cozy time off.

Jingly Yours!
